In order to access some AGS services, you will be asked to sign in with a username and password, which we refer to as your credentials. As part of creating your credentials, you may also be requested to provide questions and secret answers, which we use to help verify your identity and assist in resetting your password, as well as an alternate email address. Some services may require added security, and in these cases, you may be asked to create an additional security key. Finally, a unique ID number will be assigned to your credentials which will be used to identify your credentials and associated information.

Some AGS services may require you to provide personal information, such as your e-mail address, name, home or work address or telephone number. We may also collect demographic information, such as your postal code, age, gender, preferences, interests and favorites.

We may collect information about your visit, including the pages you view, the links you click and other actions taken in connection with AGS sites and services. We also collect certain standard information that your browser sends to every website you visit, such as your IP address, browser type and language, access times and referring Web site addresses.

When you receive newsletters or promotional e-mail from AGS, we may use customized links or similar technologies to determine whether the e-mail has been opened and which links you click in order to provide you more focused e-mail communications or other information.

In order to offer you a more consistent and personalized experience in your interactions with AGS, information collected through one AGS service may be combined with information obtained through other AGS services. We may also supplement the information we collect with information obtained from other companies.
